OUR SIGNATURE LIMESTONE

Phenix is a Type III limestone that is extremely versatile thanks to its high density, low absorption, good workability, and distinctive look. Unlike many other stones, ours can be used in a wide variety of applications throughout a project, from countertops and hearths, to pavers and pool coping. Plus, as both a quarry and a fabricator, we offer our customers a streamlined sales process and more customized product options.

VENEER

Phenix stone is a great option for building needs both inside and out, thanks to low moisture absorption that makes it freeze-thaw resistant and less susceptible to cracking and crumbling than softer stones. Napoleon and Fleuri cuts are available in both full-bed depth and thin veneer.

PAVING

Phenix stone is available as both interior and exterior tile and paving, and is an excellent option for walkways, patios and pool coping. Our high-density limestone is a durable, long-lasting material.

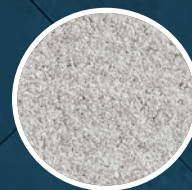

Aesthetically, the neutral tones of Phenix stone are attractive when used alone and make a fine complement to other hardscape materials.

Our stone has excellent performance in freeze-thaw conditions and coastal environments, and all finishes meet slip-resistance requirements.
